Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time
August 5, 2018

Do not work for food that perishes but for the food that endures for eternal life.
— John 6:27a

The crowd in today’s gospel demanded a sign from Jesus. May our faithful stewardship be a sign to others that we, like the Ephesians in the second reading, have laid aside our former way of life and acquired a ‘fresh, spiritual way of thinking’ in Christ.

TODAY’S READINGS
First Reading — I will rain down bread from heaven for you (Exodus 16:2-4, 12-15).
Psalm — The Lord gave them bread from heaven (Psalm 78).
Second Reading — Put on the new self that has been created in God’s way (Ephesians 4:17, 20-24).
Gospel — Whoever comes to me will never hunger, and whoever believes in me will never thirst (John 6:24-35).

SAINT AUGUSTINE, Bishop of Hippo
“Doctor of the Church”

Our Patron Saint is accepted by most scholars to be the most important figure in the ancient Western church. After a rather unremarkable childhood, marred only by a case of stealing pears, Augustine drifted through several philosophical systems before converting to Christianity at the age of thirty-one. At the age of nineteen, Augustine read Cicero’s Hortensius, an experience that led him into the fascination with philosophical questions and methods that would remain with him throughout his life. After a few years as a Manichean (a believer in a syncretistic religious dualism originating in Persia in the third century and teaching the release of the spirit from the matter through asceticism), he became attracted to the more skeptical positions of the Academic philosophers.

“Stewardship is the grateful response of a Christian disciple who recognizes and receives God gift’s and shares these gifts in love of God and neighbor.”
